Petur Iliev is a Bulgarian-born dance teacher and choreographer whose career is deeply steeped in the rich folk dance traditions of his family. He started dancing at the age of five in his father's dance ensemble and has studied at the National School of Dance Art, the National Institute of Choreography in Sofia and the US National Dance Institute in New York. He began his professional career as a Principal Dancer of the Kutev Dance Ensemble and later moved to the US where he has been conducting master classes in Character and Bulgarian folk dance at many colleges and universities and has been choreographing for professional and non-professional dance companies. In 2003 he joined the faculty of the renowned School of Pacific Northwest Ballet and has also taught at Ballet Chicago and Kansas City Ballet School. With this invaluable experience in hand he resumed his activity in Bulgaria in 2008 through the various programs of the Iliev Dance Art Foundation.
